Halo is an M-Rated game, however many agree that the rating may be harsh. It does not portray as much gore or fowl language as other M-rated games. It is typically a popular game for the fun camp-in with up to 16 player matches. It is suggested that the parents do their own research on the game to make their decision. In the past we have used the same method of approving their scout to play Halo. If they don't meet the age requirements for other M-rated games and you checked the box, they will still be kept away from other M-rated games. This is the single and only exception to the rule.

In accordance with Troop 72 policies, all adults attending troop organized events must take BSA youth protection training prior to attending the event. Once the training is completed, the certificate needs to be printed, turned in with the permission slip and the certificate will be kept on file with the troop. Training is valid for two years from the date of completion.
