NOTE*:

Halo is an M-Rated game; however, many agree that the rating may be harsh. It does not portray as much gore or foul language as other M-rated games. It is typically a popular game for the fun camp-in with up to 16 player matches. It is suggested that the parents do their own research on the game to make their decision. In the past we used the same method of approving their scout to play Halo. If they don't meet the age requirements for other M-rated games and you checked the box, they will be kept away from other M-rated games. This is the single and only exception to the rule.
